said Kyle. "You don't get that with paid ambulance services."

"I just want to let you know we are in dire need of help for the Elba Rescue Squad," stated Kyle.

He told Lions the squad is "hurting" for EMTs and EVOG drivers.

At the present time, the squad is trying to work out an agreement with local companies and businesses, which have employees who are EMTs, to allow them to answer emergency calls without loss of pay.

During this critical situation, Kyle stated that rescue squads from New Brockton, Opp and Andalusia are assisting in answering daytime emergencies in Elba and the local area.

They are also making transfers, hospital to hospital, during this time.

Kyle, during a question and answer session, briefed the Lions on the qualifications of becoming a member of the rescue squad.

He encouraged any member of the Lions Club who wished to join the unit to do so and to encourage others to join too.

Kyle concluded his talk by placing emphasis on the fact that the rescue squad is a vital part of the community, and that everything possible should be done to continue its operation.

APPROVES REVENUE COMMISSIONER'S ANNUAL SETTLEMENT WITH THE STATE

Commission awards bids and votes to cut DYS funds

by Marvin McIlwain
Editor

In Monday's meeting, the Coffee County Commission gave the go ahead for the construction of a storage building for the county health department and voted to cut DYS funds.

Commissioners, in their May 22nd meeting, sent out bid invitations on a 30 x 40 foot metal storage building. The bid specifications stipulated that the building be on a concrete slab and have nine fluorescent overhead lights. An additional walkway and tapered driveway were also included in the bid.

The only bid received on the building was from Enco Construction Company of Enterprise. Their bid was $19,905.00.

Commissioners accepted the lone bid noting that Kenneth Ball, who is with the Coffee County Health Department, had stated in previous meetings that his agency had $20,000 which could be used toward funding the construction. It appears that will be enough without the county having to provide any additional monies.

A discussion concerning the supplemental funding of the Department of Youth Services (DYS) consumed a large portion of Monday's meeting.

Currently, the commission is supplementing the salaries of the three (3) juvenile officers serving the county. The state is required, by law, to pay the remainder of the salary.

County Administrator Wilson Mobley told commissioners that the county pays the full amount of the salaries, and the state reimburses the county for their portion.

He noted that no funds have been received from the state since February. The DYS had expended all its funds and it will take legislative action to replace or provide additional funds to the department. Meanwhile, the county has been taking up the slack.

After several minutes of discussion, Commissioner Bill Faulk made a motion to cease paying the total amount as of July 1st.

After that date, the motion stated that the county will pay only that portion of the juvenile officers' salaries as required by law.

An attempt to amend Faulk's motion was made by Commissioner Robert Stephens but it failed due to lack of a second.

Stephens proposed that the commission continue paying the full amount until October which is when the fiscal year ends.

The commission for its approval. He noted that this is required by law.

Burns pointed out to the commissioners that his office had collected almost $1.7 million in taxes and sent it to the Coffee County Commission.

The commission approved Burns' report as presented.

Next, Burns noted, "We are in very bad need of a vehicle for the mapping & appraisal department."

He told members of the commission that the vehicle presently being used by this department has over 130,000 miles on it.

A recommendation was made by Burns and approved by the commissioners that bid requests be sent out for a 4-wheel utility vehicle to replace the present vehicle.

Although the bids will come through the commission, funds to pay for the vehicle will be provided by the revenue commissioner's discretionary fund.

In making his report to the commissioners, County Engineer Randy Tindell stated that the paving project on Co. Rd. 727 (Sardis Church road) was nearing completion. It should be finished in 2 to 3 weeks.

Tindell told commissioners that the contracts on the county's federal aid resurfacing projects had been let.

BRAINSTORMS

With Ferrin Cox

We were impressed with the professionalism demonstrated in the rescue of the Air Force pilot shot down over Bosnia last week. First, Captain Scott O'Grady did as he was trained to do throughout the ordeal. Then the action of the rescue pilots and the Marine "grunts" who leaped from the helicopters prepared to defend until the death ... folks that is what results from continuous training by our military troops. When things are quiet it is easy to suggest curtailing military training exercises, but then when we need trained professional soldiers, it is comforting to watch them work.

Captain O'Grady is apparently a class act. Upon his return stateside, he continues to shun the hero label. He correctly gives ample credit to those who engineered and carried out his rescue. We noted he never failed to give proper credit to God also. When he finally agreed to accept the hero label, it had some conditions. He did it on behalf of all those who have gone before him, both living and dead, in insuring America remain free. We like that.

Elba had a representative involved in the rescue effort. Christopher Tidwell, a 1991 graduate of Elba High School, is serving with the U. S. Navy and is aboard the U.S.S. Kearsarge. That is the ship which launched and retrieved the aircraft which made the dramatic rescue. Chris is the son of Aaron and Kathy Tidwell. The ship sailed out of Norfolk, VA on April 22nd for a six month tour. As correctly pointed out by Captain O'Grady, it took all those well trained sailors and marines to make the rescue a success.

We got some bad news this week about another Elba High graduate. The bad news is our selfish opinion - for him it is great. James O. King, Orell to his Elba friends and relatives, is retiring from his federal job in Washington. For those who don't know, this man is a walking reference book on what is happening in the U. S. Congress and why. Some nice words were printed in the Congressional Record recognizing his many contributions. We have read lobbyist letters indicating they rated him as a man to see if you want to know what is going on in Washington. In fact he was rated by Roll Call newspaper as one of the 50 most influential congressional staff members. We kinda liked having him there also ... he was always ready to give us information or guide us to the right place to find it. He ain't going home to prop up his feet, the folks in his adopted home of Kentucky have already found him a research job dealing with taxes. We wish him luck.

Five Troy teenagers are facing murder charges for killing a 13-year old last week. Apparently it was a gang battle between two rival groups. This is a puzzle which is hard to piece together. First, gang members have said they joined for things like "protection." Now one apparently is killed by a gang, because of his gang association. No, we will never understand the reasoning behind any of that stuff.

WTUV-TV pictured some terrible conditions at the Elba dog pound last week. It is something which just shouldn't have been allowed to evolve. We could point fingers all day, but the fact is ... it was a mess. We have quarreled with Elba mayors when we thought they did wrong. They also deserve praise when they do good. We admire the way Elba Mayor Ricky Haywood responded to the TV reporter and conveyed that to him Monday. His acknowledging the problem and the on-camera invitation for the TV crew to return in a couple of weeks to see the improvements was ... well it was smart and the right thing to do. As he said, "We took a lemon and are making lemonade."

FROM THE HOUSE

Congressman

New House Defense Bill Protects Second District

The House National Security Committee's proposed 1996 defense budget could prove to be a victory for Southeast Alabama as defense jobs and military installation construction are expected to remain vigorous.

The proposed budget was recently approved in committee and comes up for a full House vote in a few weeks.

Defense Jobs — The proposed defense budget for fiscal year 1996 continues to fund three important weapons systems which are produced with the help of hundreds of Southeast Alabama workers. In fact, the proposed defense budget also provides funding to keep the weapons production lines up and running for future years.

Tallahassee and Helicopters — Workers at Tallahassee's DOW-United Technologies aircraft plant will be busy if the new defense bill is passed into law.

The House legislation calls for $336 million in funding for 60 new UH-60 Blackhawk helicopters. In addition, as a member of the National Security subcommittee on military procurement, I was able to secure another $75 million to keep Blackhawk production lines open to an adequate supply of the aircraft to meet the Army and National Guard's future needs.

By keeping the helicopter production infrastructure in place, we also ensure that it will be possible to produce the Army's new attack helicopter, the Comanche. This advanced helicopter, which remains under development, eventually will be integrated into the Fort Rucker's aviation training mission.

Pike County Missiles — Workers at the Second District's newest defense plant, Lockheed Martin in the Orion Community of north Pike County will also benefit if the proposed new defense bill is approved.

At my request, the House National Security Committee added $40 million to the Army's new budget to produce 750 Hellfire II air-to-ground missiles.

The new budget also calls for $171 million to produce 557 Javelin precision-guided anti-tank infantry missiles, and another $39 million for 453 added missiles to meet future requirements.

One sign of military base vitality is new base construction projects. In the 1996 proposed budget, $23.7 million is being set aside for five new projects in the Second District.

Fort Rucker — A total of $11 million is being proposed for two projects in 1996. This includes $5.9 million for a new ammunition supply facility, and $5.1 million for major repairs to Lake Tholozan Dam which was destroyed by Tropical Storm Alberto last year.

Maxwell Air Force Base — Three projects totaling $12.77 million have been requested in the new budget. They are $5.47 million for the 52,000 square foot addition to the Maxwell Elementary School; $3.7 million for an 11,400 square foot addition to the Child Development Center; and $3.6 million for a composite maintenance shop for the 908th Air Reserve C-130 Unit.

Military Retiree COLAS Restored — The 1996 proposed defense bill also restores the Cost of Living Allowance (COLA) for military retirees to the level of civil service retirees.

As the new defense bill faces a full House vote later this month, I'll keep you posted on its progress and the impact on Southeast Alabama.

Dear Residents of Coffee County:

On March 1, 1979, Coffee County Sheriff Neil Grantham was assassinated. Today, sixteen years, three months, and 15 days later - Sheriff Grantham's murderer is alive and well on death row. This convicted murderer is no closer to death today than he was sixteen years ago. This letter is lengthy; however, the appeals process is lengthy - we know, we have been waiting for over sixteen years.

Currently, a death row inmate in Alabama has TEN (10) complete and separate opportunities to appeal his conviction, not including "last minute appeals" and other appeals.

ALABAMA IS THE ONLY STATE IN THE NATION which automatically appeals death penalty cases to the State Criminal Court of Appeals. All other states automatically appeal death penalty cases to the State Supreme Court by-passing the State Criminal Court of Appeals. Alabama has an automatic state appellate review of death penalty cases where each Alabama court reviews the entire trial record.

After sentencing of the Alabama Circuit Court all death penalty cases automatically go to the (1) Alabama Criminal Court of Appeals where the case is either affirmed or reversed. The case then goes to the (2) Alabama Supreme Court where the entire record is reviewed and is either affirmed or reversed. The next step is the (3) United States Supreme Court. Afterwards, the entire record is once again reviewed by the (4) Alabama Circuit Court. Then, again, the entire court record is reviewed by the (5) Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals. Next, the entire record is reviewed by the (6) Alabama Supreme Court before going to the (7) United States Supreme Court for the second time. The case then goes to the (8) United States Supreme Court. The national average of time for a convicted murderer to remain on death row is nine years. The average length of time for a convicted murderer in Alabama to remain on death row is 10 years and 10 months - almost two years longer than the national average.

On Wednesday, June 7th, the Senate Judiciary Committee approved passage of Senate Bill 398. This bill will eliminate a small link in a long, long chain of appeals. This bill allows all death penalty cases to go directly to the Alabama Supreme Court cutting out steps 1 and 5 - the Alabama Criminal Court of Appeals. The passage of this bill will put Alabama in line with the other death penalty states.

This vote was just one small step forward on a long and difficult journey; however, it was a beginning - a beginning for all law-abiding citizens of Alabama. Any prudent person knows the pendulum of justice has swung too far toward the rights of criminals. Only when we have a judicial system which weighs the execution of convicted murderers against the lives of innocent victims and of other possible victims - only then will all law-abiding citizens receive their full measure of justice.

When a judicial system places a greater value on the life of a convicted murderer, the system is guilty of raping and murdering the memory of innocent victims.

On behalf of the family of Coffee County Sheriff Neil Grantham, and the families of other innocent victims, we ask for your help and support in getting Senate Bill 398 on a Special Order Calendar and passed by the Senate. We need your assistance and support in our effort to put "justice for all" back in our judicial system.

Please contact Lieutenant Governor Don Siegelman (address below) and urge him to have the Senate Rules Committee set a Special Order Calendar for Senate Bill 398. If you have time, contact Senator Dwight Adams, Senator W.H. Lindsey, and Senator Roger Bedford (addresses below). Without this Special Order Calendar, this bill has a very slim chance of ever reaching the Senate for a vote.

The passage of this bill will not release the Grantham family from the horrible nightmare we have been experiencing since March 1, 1979; this bill does not effect any cases which are already in the courts. However, if this bill can prevent other families from being destroyed by a vicious murderer, our fight will not be in vain.

Sixteen years ago, Sheriff Neil Grantham gave his life for the people of Coffee County. We ask you to take a few seconds of your time and give something back to him. Call or write today regarding Senate Bill 398. Someone you know and love could be the next victim.

Sincerely,
Janette G. Carr, sister

Dear Editor,

I am Pro Life and the reason is very simple: Many years ago I was adopted by loving and caring parents. By the grace of God, my natural parents decided to go through with my birth and put me up for adoption.

But think about it: How many men and women today are allowed by God to conceive a child, but by their own free will, allow those unborn children-like I was-to be killed through abortion.

We live in a very secular society that is confusing and challenging, full of potential, although troublesome. But the answers to all of our problems is to "put God first". We must allow Jesus to come into our hearts and to accept His love for us.

God loves us just the way we are, and we manifest that love in our children, the product of the expression of love between a man and a woman. Through our birth and development, we become receptive to God's spiritual gifts of joy, peace, and true happiness.

Thanks to my parents, both natural and adoptive, I was allowed to enter the world to share in its blessings and to become strengthened by its hardships.

Please let Jesus Christ come into your lives, and don't end a life because of convenience or lack of commitment. There are those, like my adoptive parents, who yearn to share their love with a child. They, and those unborn children, deserve that opportunity.

Abortion is not the answer, and I for one am grateful.

God bless you,
Don Layrison

Listen to the Prophets!

There's no telling what goes on in the mind of a seventeen year old boy who has been sent to prune a cherry tree, but the visions Robert Goddard saw in 1899 from a leafy perch in his grandmother's orchard impelled him through life. There, Goddard was smitten by an idea: "How wonderful it would be to make some device which had even the possibility of ascending to Mars!"

Not everyone was enthusiastic about the idea. His Harvard-educated cousin announced it couldn't be done, and Robert's father nicknamed him "the angel shooter." Nevertheless, space travel captivated the young man, and ten years later in 1909, Robert's sketchbook contained a half dozen pictures of space vehicles. In one drawing there was a winged "car" driven by "explosive jets of liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen" and steered by "side jets." The vehicle bears a striking resemblance to our modern space shuttle. Robert's drawings only earned him a media nickname: "The Moon Man."

More than two and a half decades after pruning the cherry tree, Robert, the rocket scientist, launched his first liquid-fueled missile on his Aunt Effie's farm. The rocket ascended to a height of forty-one feet and traveled from its launch pad to the cabbage patch, a distance of 184 feet. The flight lasted 2.5 seconds. Robert was elated, but one of his assistants felt he could have thrown a baseball farther.

A follow-up experiment in July 1929 exploded, causing such a local reaction that the Boston Globe headlined: "Moon Rocket Man's Test Alarms Whole Countrywide." Massachusetts was not ready for space travel and Robert was ordered to cease and desist. Late in 1929 Charles Lindbergh, the famed aviator, persuaded philanthropist Daniel Guggenheim to underwrite Goddard's testing. Armed with his sketchbook and experiments, Goddard moved to New Mexico where the desert became the backdrop for his launch events. The prophet clari-

Little attention was paid to the rocket wizard in the United States, but Goddard's work infused life into the calculations of the rocket pioneers of Germany, who later migrated to American and undergirded its infant space program. Robert Hutchings Goddard, the "angel shooter," died on August 10, 1945.

In July 1969, exactly forty years after Goddard's exploding projectile named him from Boston and other parts of the Commonwealth, a rocket named Apollo 11 winged its way to the moon. A New York Times editorial recalled the day the paper had ridiculed Goddard's rockets and apologized-posthumously. Like the New York Times, there are moments in life when we simply have to say, "If I'd only known!" The future is hidden from men and nations-or is it?

Israel was a nation that needed no diviners, for God provided the prophets to guide the nation into its tomorrows. The prophets were "foretellers" who recorded history in advance. This was a critical task, since Scripture based its authority on the reliability of its predictive messages. Consequently, the prophets, the prophetic books, and prophecy in general require and deserve our close attention.

The prophet was literally a spokesperson for God-an awesome "working relationship." In addition to describing future events, the prophet clarified the present and sometimes explained the past. His messages contained specific details, revealed to him by the Holy Spirit of God. Zechariah, for instance, foretold that Christ would be betrayed for thirty pieces of silver (Zechariah 11:12-13) and forsaken by His disciples (13:7). At times, through oracle or burden, dreams or visions, a prophet, such as Ezekiel, spoke of places and events totally foreign to his own experience.

The seventeen prophetic books of the Old Testament (Isaiah-Malachi) record God's thoughts and actions. These books reveal God's personality, His pleasure or displeasure, His judgment, and His pivotal utterances of hope. The prophetic books prove God's trustworthiness; they feature Him in the sovereign and strategic role of decision maker. Unlike the New York Times, God has never had to apologize.

The best reason for paying close attention to prophecy is Jesus Christ: "For the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy" (Revelation 19:10). What Genesis and the Old Testament saw dimly as promise, the New Testament and Revelation see sharply as Person. Fulfilled prophecy, the prophets, and the prophetic books are the events, the people, and the words through which Jesus comes sharply into focus in our day as King of Kings and Lord of Lords. So, listen to the prophets!

For My Dad on Father's Day

For all the love you've given me,
For all the times we've shared,
I want to tell you thank you, Dad,
For all the times you've cared.
You've taken such good care of me,
Through the good times and the bad,
You did the things that you saw fit,
The things I needed, I had.
I feel so lucky to have you,
Nothing can take your place.
I'm glad to have a Dad who loves me,
And it shines so on his face.
I just want to say I love you,
And I have my whole life through.
And I thank the heavenly Father above,
For sending me a Dad like you.
Happy Father's Day, Pop,

Assoc. County AgentFarmers Market In New Brookton

The Coffee County Farmers Market will be starting June 6 at the Farm Center in New Brookton. It will be held every Tuesday and Friday mornings until sell out. This is for locally grown fruit and vegetables and homemade crafts.

This is an opportunity for all of our local growers to sell their harvest and is also an opportunity for people in our community to purchase homegrown vegetables. This will be a central location for getting farmers and consumers together. This will be in the open air barn toward the back of the Farm Center.

If you are looking for fresh vegetables and fruits or an opportunity to put up vegetables this is an ideal place for you to come and get them. This week you can expect squash, beans, okra, corn, tomatoes, cucumbers, peaches, blackberries, and blueberries. These vegetables and fruits will be seasonal. You are also welcome to call the Extension Office at 894-5596 before coming to New Brookton.

We would like to encourage our local growers and local crafts people to participate in this market. Even if you are a small grower, you may have extra produce and this will be an opportunity for you. This is in cooperation with the Coffee County Commission.

Melanie sometimes has a hard time understanding that with age comes privilege, and one of her biggest problems is why her big sister gets to have spend-the-night company and spend the night away from home, while she never gets to do any of the above. All that changed last weekend; however, as Melanie got to spend the weekend with her cousin Hanna while we went to a softball tournament in Tallahassee. She admitted she missed me after I asked her, but if the truth were known, I bet she would do it again tonight!

ELBA'S MCKINNON ADDS TO BULGING TROPHY CASE

Elba's Ronald McKinnon was back in the spotlight Sunday night when he received the "Small College Athlete of the Year" award during ceremonies in Birmingham. McKinnon has been a consensus All-American since his arrival at North Alabama three years ago, and last year was named the nation's top defensive player in Division II football by the NCAA. The former Elba Tiger standout is going to summer school so that he will graduate this winter at UNA, and get his degree before any thoughts of joining the ranks in the NFL. There is no doubt that Ronald McKinnon is already one of the best ever to come out of Elba High.

ELBA GIRLS PLACE 3RD IN TALLAHASSEE TOURNEY

The All-Star Sports and Graphics girls' softball team traveled to Tallahassee, Florida, last weekend to compete in the Capitol City Youth Softball Invitational, and made their mark at the nationally recognized event by placing third in the 10-team tournament. The girls, all ages 10-12, left Elba at 4:00 Saturday morning for the drive to Tallahassee and were on the field playing at 9:15. The girls won their first two games in the tournament during the hottest part of the day, then had to sit around in the heat and wait for almost three hours before taking the field again. The heat, the obvious fatigue from the travel and lack of sleep, and the competition, got to the Elba girls in their final two games as they had to settle for third place. The Elba girls competed against three teams from Florida and one from Georgia, and represented their city well!

ELBA MEN'S TEAMS STUMBLE AT CLASS D EVENT

Three Elba teams competed in the Men's Class D District Softball Tournament in Tallahassee last weekend, but found the going a little rough as only the Elba Merchants were able to qualify for a spot in sub-state action. The Elba Merchants claimed two wins to tie for 9th in the 38-team tourney, while the City Merchants and All-Star Sports both failed to win a game. The Elba Merchants will now advance to sub-state play in two weeks in Dothan.

Lady Gamecocks' Arrington signs with Chipola

New Brockton Lady Gamecock softball standout Amy Arrington made it clear that she would continue her career at the next level of competition last week when she signed a full-tuition athletic scholarship with Chipola Junior College.

The 1995 New Brockton grad was a standout with the Lady Gamecocks for the past two seasons, and last season helped New Brockton finish 5th in the state in Class 1A.

While Arrington has been widely recognized for her talents in softball, the signing with Chipola will mean a change to the "fast" lane for the talented athlete, since she played slow-pitch softball in high school, but will compete in fast-pitch softball at junior college.

"We are very optimistic that Amy will have no problems making the adjustment to fast-pitch softball," stated Chipola's Coach Gordon Wells, who led his team to a 27-22 record last season, the school's first in fast-pitch competition.

"I'm just as pleased as punch that Chipola made the decision to sign Amy," said New Brockton's Coach Trent Trawick. "I am proud of her and hope she is successful as she makes the transition to junior college softball."

Chipola will begin practice the week after Labor Day, with the season to begin in February.

Amy is the daughter of Eula and John Arrington, of 874 Cedar Lane Drive, in Elba.

investigated. 35 dogs were picked up and one returned to its owner.

Hooks updated the council on the two recent boom threats and the actions being taken. He also gave members of the news media copies of a prepared news release on this matter.

Haywood commended the chief and police department for a job well done.

The council told City Clerk Clark that city employees and equipment were behind in city work and unavailable to cut bushes around the lakeshore of the City Country Club.

The council was informed of a change in the state law (Section 11-51-90) which allows an increase from $0.50 to $5.00 in the clerk's fee for issuing business licenses.

Haywood recommended approval and the council members voted unanimously to do so.

The council again discussed auditing city sales tax accounts. Additional information was requested by council members and the matter will be discussed again at a later meeting.

The council approved monthly bills totaling $16,332.79.

Elba Elementary School Award's Day held May 29th

Elba Elementary School held Awards Day on May 29, 1995 to recognize students' special achievements and academic honors for the 1994-95 school year. A capacity crowd of parents and grandparents joined the students and faculty in the cafeteria for the awards presentations. The program opened with the Pledge of Allegiance followed by Mrs. Kate Ham's second grade class singing "America". Mr. Dale Crowe, principal; Mrs. Marsha Oggs, school counselor; and Mrs. Judy Killingsworth, curriculum supervisor, presented certificates and ribbons to the award winners. To recognize the extraordinary year of the Elba Elementary Student Council officers and representatives during the 1994-95 school year, Mrs. Sonja Helms, and Mrs. Oggs, student council sponsors, presented the library with a check for $1500.00 to purchase a CD ROM. They also gave the Physical Education Department a check for $300.00 toward equipment for the new playground. Following the award presentations, the student body was challenged to keep their winning attitude. The award winners were congratulated for achieving their goals for the 1994-1995 school year.
